

Font makes all the difference

We have a caravan at East Runton and when there we read the EDP.

I was very interested in the article in EDP2 headline “A font of knowledge” regarding a typeface especially for dyslexic people.

My husband is 66, severely dyslexic all his life. Two years ago he started attending special classes which helped him. When I showed him the special typeface/font, immediately he could see and read it more easily.

I hope I can obtain the font on my PC to type my husband's homework.
